CLASS WAR ON THE STREETS

CLASSWAR GRAFFITTI

PUTTING THE THREAT UP ON THE WALL . . . AND NOT GETTING CAUGHT

Every night, Peter from Redfern cruises the city looking for wall space to spray the threat . . .

C.W: What security measures do you take when putting up?

We always work in a crew of 3 or 4 people. We all have mobiles - and the people who are painting have hands - free connected. We also take an infa - red pen and stickers to fuck any security cameras - an infa - red pen pointed at the lens fucks up the camera . . and a sticker over a lens is a good measure. Two people are look - outs - one person does the outline of the piece - the other fills it in . . . simple !

C.W: What are the best spots to hit?

To really put the CLASS WAR threat across, we do train lines, along motorways and major highways and at intersections where there is loads of traffic. The roofs of houses and buildings are good too 'cause you con see it from planes. If you're just tagging 'CLASS WAR' or putting up stickers - then pedestrian crossings, traffic lights and on trainstations, and in the toilets in stations and pubs are good. We always plaster outside schools to let as many kids know about it as possible . . . and shopping malls as well . . .

C.W: Where don't you put up 'CLASS WAR'?

We won't do peoples property who aren't rich or their helpers. And we don't do over sandstone heritage stuff. We leave Public Hospitals alone, and we only put up on property that backs onto Public Schools cause the schools are broke enuf as it is . . . private schools and hospitals are targets tho. Everywhere else is fair game . . .

C.W: What're the best paints and markers to use ?

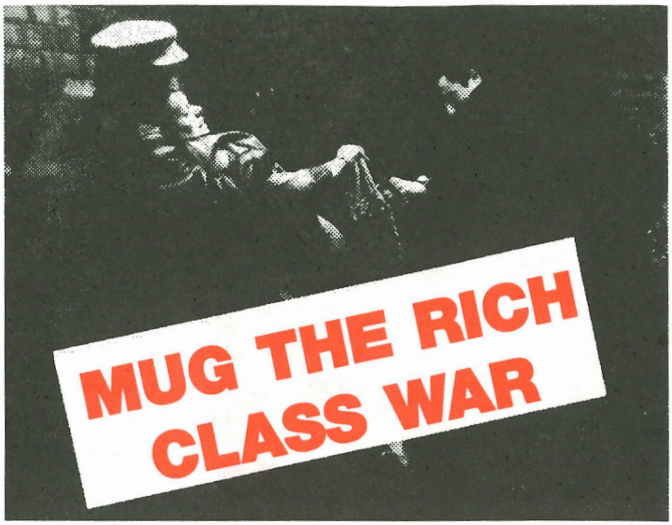
Get a fatty from any newsagency and buy some black stamp pad ink as well. Get some mersurochrome, iodine, and ethynol from the chemist and hardware store. Mix the proportions (Black ink 65% , Iodine 10%, Ethynol 10%, Methylane blue 10%, Merchurochrome 5%) together and soak the felt inner of the fatty in it. When you write on a wall with this mixture, it's hard to get off. As for spray paint, any one will do, but Belton Moltona and Molton are the hardest to get off.

C.W: What's your favourite trick ?

Phoning up the cops from two different pay phones and sending them to the other side of town so we can hit the cop shop and pig cars . . .easy !

Mug the Rich

Never mind sticking up an old granny for her pension check or robbing some poor bastard for their last $10;– if you gonna mug someone, make it a rich scumbag. Not only do you dish out some class justice to the people who own and control everything that fucks you around – but you'll earn more for your effort. The snobby parts of town are easy pickings, and so are the restaurants and cafés these rich vermin infest. Keep the crime out of our areas and make a living hell in theirs. We are their worst nightmare – make it come true!



Make the Rich pay

No matter how they try to contain and break our rebellious spirit – inside or outside of prison – we will always fight them. They are the enemy. You've got to be organised, so look out for each other and use the system to create loopholes you can use to your advantage. Prison is where they lock up those that don't and won't obey authority and their rules... all the rebels under one roof – gang up and fight back.

CLASS WAR

MAKE THE RICH PAY

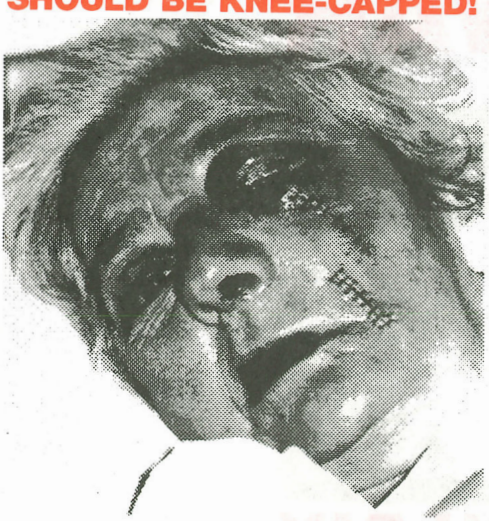
THE PEOPLE WHO DID THIS

ARE SCUM

Scum who hurt the elderly and children are the lowest forms of life that walk around on 2 feet. Picking on defenceless people who can't fight back is the same 'bully–boy' tactics that cops and bouncers use. There's only one solution for this behaviour – unity and revenge. Photos of child abusers and granny bashers should be plastered everywhere with the slogan "Granny bashing parasite" or "Child bashing scum" on it. As well as this, they should be bashed themselves. Don't go to the cops. Sort it out yourselves. People that go to the cops are like those teachers' pets at school who run to the teacher at every opportunity to help 'em out because they are too scared to deal with it themselves.

When they push it too far, when you've had enough – RIOT! It's the only threat that works because it's a numbers game. When there's a hundred of us, we can run amuck and do what we like. Riots are the ultimate high. Never mind parachuting, bungee jumping or ecstasy – riots are better than any drug on the market. They are the only way to fight back and push it as far as you want to go. From overturning a few cop cars and reducing the pig station to ash, to overthrowing the government and starting a revolution. When the people come out to fight back, the score will be settled by RIOT!!

THE PEOPLE WHO DID THIS SHOULD BE KNEE-CAPPED!



THE OLD AND THE POOR ARE NOT A TARGET

Burglars' job list for sale

A MAILING list of rich women was branded a burglar's guidebook yesterday.

The list of 4,934 names and addresses is being sold to firms like jewellers looking for wealthy customers.

But police and trading standards officers called it irresponsible and an invitation to crooks.

The firm involved. The Last Register of London said buyers of the list were vetted.

DIDDY DONE OVER

Burglars ransacked the London home of DJ Diddy David Hamilton, 50, while he was in the studio presenting his Capital Gold radio show.

Raiders grab rare clocks

THIEVES stole designer clocks and watches worth more than $250,000 in a smash and grab raid on a Double Bay jeweller early yesterday.

More than 150 watches and two rare clocks were stolen in the raid on the Hardy Brothers store in Guilfoyle Ave about 4am.

It took just four minutes for the thieves to smash through two sets of steel plate doors using sledgehammers, grab the goods and escape before security guards arrived.

THE BIKE'S BACK

A thief returned the bike he stole from Chris Oldham's 20 after hearing he had to walk five miles to work from his home in Wolstanton.

Graffiti rampage

A GANG of teenagers went on a graffiti rampage, causing thousands of dollars damage

THIEVES tracked down a rare £14,000 sports supercar — then rang the owner to tell him they had nicked it.

Securicor raid

A four-man gang, armed with handguns and a shotgun, hijacked a Securicor van delivering to a bank in Redhill, Surrey, and escaped with £405,000 after driving the van to woodland near Redhill Common. No one was hurt in the attack.

A STOLEN driving licence enabled a woman to take off with £600 worth of drilling equipment. The woman hired a Kanga 900 Lamur Drill in mid February from the Hire Service Shop, in Mayer Street, Hackney, and never returned the item — costing the shop £600.

TONY HUGHES, the man who shot dead police inspector Raymond Codling, had spoken just days before of a desire for revenge against the force, his stepfather said yesterday.

Walter Krei, 62, said: "Revenge was always on his mind. He had spent so many years in prison and had said he had been beaten up a lot by officers. When I saw him a week before the killing he said he had had enough.

"He told me, 'One of these days I will get revenge'. That is what he was saying and that's what he has done.

WHEN Brett Immerman desperately needed money, he looked to his parents' wealthy friends.

But Immerman didn't ask for a loan or investment advice. Instead he broke into their eastern suburbs homes and cleaned out anything valuable.

TWO giant brewers are offering a £10,000 reward to collar Beerkeg Bandits who cost the industry a staggering £20 million a year.

Hundreds of aluminium barrels a year are stolen from local pubs. Throughout the country the number is about 80,000.

Once stolen they are melted down into ingots and sold.

50 sofas stolen

A HIGHLY organised team of thieves stole Italian leather lounge suites worth "many thousands of dollars" from a warehouse last week.

A MAN tried to use a fake $100 note to buy dinner at McDonald's last night.

Hoodlums incited riots

Thieves ram bank

MASKED bandits armed with pistols robbed a suburban bank in a daring ram raid yesterday.

The thieves used a four-wheel drive to crash through the glass shopfront of the Westpac Bank at Greenacre about 2pm.

They drove the Ford Raider through the bank's loan office on the left side, which gave them access to the tellers' side.

The thieves fled in a stolen white VN Commodore parked directly outside.

Faked degree probe

IMMIGRATION officials have acted on reports that fake academic certificates and migration application forms were being sold to the Chinese community, a Senate Estimates committee was told last night.

No GST for rich tenants

THOUSANDS of tenants living in some of Sydney's most exclusive addresses will escape the GST on their rent, while battlers living in caravan parks are slugged.

Raid on gem store

SYDNEY detectives last night were investigating the theft of jewellery valued at $250,000 from J Farrenprice jewellers at Castlereagh Street in the city. The shop's front window was smashed and the valuables were snatched from the display.

THE ringleader of a schoolboy counterfeiting gang used his family's computer to print out fake $50 notes, a court heard yesterday.

Getaway in style

ROBBERS made their getaway in a stolen gold Mercedes Benz car after an armed hold-up in the Miranda area of southern Sydney yesterday.

A shotgun was possibly involved but no shots were fired.

Duke robbed

THIEVES have raided the Duke of Kent's country mansion and stolen antiques and silverware worth $112,000.

DISCO RAIDERS SNATCH £7,000

Masked robbers brandishing sawn-off shotguns snatched £7,000 after handcuffing staff at a London disco yesterday.

Devil dogs attack cop

TWO Rottweiler devil dogs yesterday savaged a police man who tried to arrest them.

The officer was stomach bitten as he called on his radio for help

CLASS WAR DIVIDING LINE

LET'S DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT!

Do you think Mr and Mrs Millionaire even know what it's like to live without, and have to struggle? To the rich class, poverty is always another country away – it's never on their own doorstep. If you're poor here, it's your own fault. You're a bum – and should work harder and longer hours. It's all your own fault. If you are poor anywhere else – it's a tragedy and they will set up an international relief fund to help them out. It's easy for the rich to pretend poverty doesn't exist when you've been bought up in private schools with a silver spoon stuck up your arse, and then walked straight into a million dollar inheritance and business. It's more than money. It's the power that goes with it. The power to control your own life and destiny. Those that don't have money don't have this power and, therefore, are at the mercy of unjust circumstances. We don't agree with pleading for better treatment. We appeal to those at the mercy of the rich to get off their knees, to fight them, and to take power in doing so. This is real power. And this fight is the Class War.

"FOR EVERY COPPER ACTIVE IN AUSTRALIA TODAY THERE ARE THIS MANY WORKING CLASS CITIZENS "

We all want justice and equality.

But it's only by working together in our different neighbourhoods, all across the country, that we can achieve that.

The people who run this country, the bosses and politicians, rely on the police to keep us in line.

They don't want us to fight back.

But, together with your neighbours, you can.

PARTNERS AGAINST FILTH

If you see coppers dishing it out, don't turn a blind eye, get your mates and give the police a taste of their own medicine.

By working together we can reduce opportunities for these anti-social thugs.

And if we all do something today, the criminals who hide behind the filth will stand a lot less chance of getting away with it.

PAY BACK TIME

Anyone who encourages people to dog on each other is doing the system's dirty work.

They are, therefore, a target for revenge. They think that they are 'untouchable' in their mansions as they dictate to the world about who is and isn't a crook. This murder shows that they are not 'untouchable'. If they think they can wave reward money in front of the public's eyes to con them into putting someone in prison for 10 years, then think about this – who wants to spend the rest of their life looking over their shoulder or hiding from the world because they put someone in? Fuck 'em! – knee–cap informers, and make other 'dogs' who would do the same, think again.

Class War Hero

Fuck going to the cops to sort paedophiles out. Half the judges in this country are dirty child molesters and the cops let 'em get away with it! They'd rather put someone in prison for shoplifting or punching a cop than hurting and raping little kids for years at a time. This guy knew all this and took the law into his own hands and killed a paedophile who had been raping him for years. To Class War he is a national hero and should be given a medal.

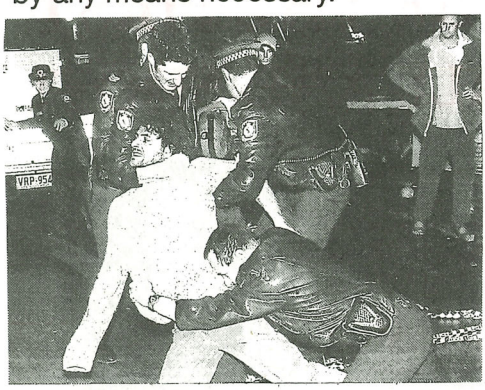
A MAN accused of killing a serial paedophile who abused him for 10 years yesterday enjoyed a drink at an inner-city hotel after a jury acquitted him of murder.
CLASS WAR HERO

Cut loose the pitfalls

Get ready for the big payback: a united attack by the wild youth across this city unleashing chaotic mayhem upon its wealthy citizens and those who protect them – with absolutely no remorse.

Now is the time to organise.

We will recruit the wild and the brave from every street and school in our areas. Our field of operations will be every wealthy suburb and business across the land. Our methods will be class based, and by any means necessary.



We will not hold back.

Our code – absolute allegiance to each other – no dogging, no careless talk and absolutely no communication with cops or any authority.

Our aim is to redirect and unleash our anger and frustration upon our real enemy - the rich and all who protect and serve their interests.

Everyone else is not a target.

This is Class War – and the war is on!

We've gotta fight!

Don't be fooled when they tell you things are better than ever. Even if you can't see the poverty and injustice, it's because they've hidden it. Even if you have better wages and more money to spend on more new and useless junk which society waves in front of you, and even if it seems to you that you never had so much, that is only the slogan of those who still have much more than you.

Don't be conned when they pat you on the back and say '"we're all equal now" and that there's no more reason to fight them – because if you believe them they will be completely in control in their mansions and luxury offices from where they rob the people blind.

Watch out, for if you upset their 'arrangement' by not doing as you are told and thinking for yourself, or if they have no further need for you – you will be thrown on the same scrap heap that all their rubbish is dumped. You will be harrassed, sacked, sent broke, imprisoned and punished. They don't like disobedience – they like us to be tame and sheep-like. If you want to be real, feel alive, and aren't scared to think for yourself, fight them – don't follow them.

It is a Class War.

Police say underage drinkers use various methods to obtain fake IDs.

● To make a false driver's licence young people use a colour photocopier or computer scanner to copy an older friend or sibling's licence.

A photograph of the juvenile is then placed where the original picture was.

Police say when the copied licence is kept under plastic in a wallet it was often passable for the real thing.

● To get a proof of age card or driver's licence from the RTA a young person will say they have lost their card or licence and apply for a new one using an older friend's details.

TEENAGERS are using their home computers to tamper with identification cards to gain entry to pubs.

Young people were caught using driver's licences, proof-of-age cards and international student identification cards which had been changed on computers to show different birth dates and photographs.

Forging ahead

SCHOOLCHILDREN are scamming the RTA to get fake IDs to drink at pubs and nightclubs. Underage teens say it's a breeze: just get your 18-year-old friend to report his driver's licence missing and supply a birth certificate and other ID. Then the kid goes to the RTA for the "replacement" licence. Bingo. Two licences for Fred Nerk with different pictures. RTA spokesman Simon Rushton said the child would be required to fake a signature, but that privacy issues prevented the RTA from storing photographs.

THIS IS CLASS WAR CRIME

Despite living on the edge of the law, both women are confident, independent and extremely funny when talking about their lives or telling of close encounters with security staff. Even though they live in different parts of London and appear to work different stores, both women mention slipping security tags in the shopping bags of unsuspecting customers (who looked respectable) in order to set off the store alarms and to divert the attention of security staff from their own activities ...

Like others, professional 'oisters (the slang pronunciation of the verb 'to hoist') these women shoplifters admit to going out with the intention of stealing from stores. They seem to be clearly aware of the dangers and shoplift not to get 'high' but to make a living. They are not 'emotional shoplifters' but the opposite: they 'switch off' from the danger in order to get by.

Crime for revenge

The target is rich – never mind breaking into a flat and nicking a TV off someone who can't afford to replace it. A short drive away other cunts are sitting back laughing at this – us ripping off our own class – whilst they sip expensive wines and admire their Porsche and jetski from their penthouse balcony. The only justice we will ever get in our lives is if we aim all of our crime, frustration and anger at the source of it all – the rich – the powerful and all those who protect them. Nuff said!!

Murdered by Police

We cannot allow the cops to kill people at will. It's not the children of the rich that they slaughter. To them it's 'scum from the housing estates' or from the areas where the 'rough' people live. If a few of us get killed – to them it's no big deal. Well, we can't allow it. Next time anyone is attacked by the cops – there has gotta be an immediate response... a march on the cop station, a riot, a threat carried out... so they know that they can't get away with it anymore.

GOOD citizen George Gardner has been forced out of his home—by yobs he tried to drive from the area.

George, 36, became the victim of a hate campaign after joining the Neighbourhood Watch crime-busting scheme four years ago.

The word "nark" was daubed on the wall of his three-bedroom detached home in the heart of a council estate.

His cars have been smashed up, a van was burned, every window in the house was broken and an attempt was made to set it alight.

Then he showed Robin a park and said: "I saw people shot here, stabbed, beaten with baseball bats. That building over there is where I hid from the cops. Sure I used a gun. I'd walk in a store with a .22 and hold it in front of the man's face.

"The last time I robbed someone I was 15. They were a couple. They had on those big sheepskin coats and hats like Russians wear. We tore them off."

Tyson looks around the desolate waste that is Brownsville and says to Robin: "Look at these people. They are my people. They are the ones I represent when I fight.

"I don't feel the urge to steal any more because I don't have to.

"But I was happier then. We'd see dead whores in the mornings.

"Every day I was living on the edge. I was wild and free. I love coming back. When I'm here I feel like a warrior."

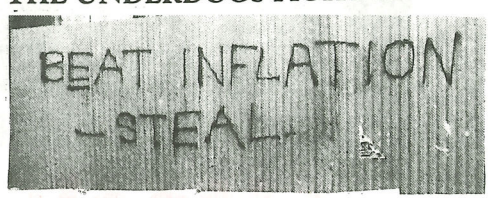
THE UNDERDOGS FIGHT BACK



Defeat Your Enemy, Defeat Your Manager!

As previously shown in issue 77 of Class War, it was determined that the manager was the enemy of the working class. Managers, who are the agents of the ruling class, are essentially the unofficial police force of any Capitalist society. They are an unwelcome intrusion into our personal lives and are solely there to manipulate us for their own personal gain. Be it in the private or public sector, the manager is a degenerate capitalist who employs 'business ethics' (pardon the contradiction!) to control us.

The concept of management is inherently vile, something that must be eradicated in order to establish a society based on reason and true justice. There will never be any equal opportunities within a society that employs unaccountable, unelected, socially inept eunuchs, who feel the urge to control. In a paradoxical way, the manager is a victim of their own debased personality, i.e. their perceived strength is in fact a weakness. In order to maintain their own mental equilibrium, they must satisfy the urge to control. It is they who are being controlled by their own base instincts. We are stronger for we are empowering ourselves with our own free will and not responding to some sort of perverted sexual urge. The manager is a rapist of working class will and solidarity. We all know how to deal with rapists, don't we?! Herein lies their weakness and our opportunity to win the class struggle!

Now for some food for thought.

For those who are psychologically inclined...

Definition of a manager: A person who is not in control of their own life, unless they believe they are in control of other peoples' lives.

And for those who are philosophically inclined...

The manager: The disorder of man's natural order.

Our philosophy is simple, we use man-anger (and women anger) to remover the manager!

After disrupting and undermining their authority in the workplace, we take the battle to a place which will provide us with more opportunities to crush these cockroaches. The place - Their homes!

Through our superior will and vision, we will remove the obscenity of management, so we can manage ourselves for the ultimate goal: Social justice for all. Manage yourselves and not other people!

Broadly speaking, there are three aspects of the manager which we can exploit, to further our cause of liberation from the evil of authority, culminating in natural order.

1. Reputation

The manager relies on his/her reputation in order to mesmerise the weaker members of our class; quite similar to the way in which a snake sets up it's prey for the kill. If we destroy their reputation, we destroy their credibility and they are seen for what they are - Disease ridden parasites. They become vulnerable and will no longer have their influence. Destroy the manager's reputation, destroy the manager! They will be flushed away into the toilet of history, drowning in their own faeces of failure.

Why not consider the following suggestions to help you in your pursuit of freedom?

A) Wouldn't your manager be shocked to use a public telephone, only to find postcards displaying details of their name, address, telephone number etc., offering sexual services involving multiple partners, animals, handbags, corpses, etc?

B) "Wanted for conning old people out of their life savings" posters displaying their faces and personal details, in public houses and bus stations, would do little to enhance their reputation would it?

2. Social and Family Life

No man is an island, and certainly not the manager! By destroying the manager's social life, we destroy their pride and mental health, leaving them as gibbering, slobbering wrecks - useless and incapacitated.

a) Leaving romantic messages on their answering machines, or sending letters to their partners from their 'lovers', would certainly keep their marriages in order?

b) Informing their close friends that their friend, 'the manager', is screwing their partner, would certainly help spice up an already damaged relationship.

c) Phone the police and report a flasher on the local common. Give your manager's description.

3. Their Freedom

We all value freedom - so does the manager, at least to ruin our lives. We run our lives through the ruin of others. Running from ruin!

a) A bag of coke within their shed and a call to the drug squad would do their freedom a lot of good. (The only disadvantage here is a waste of good coke).

b) Flat car tyres and sand within their petrol tank, would give their freedom to drive a run for their money.

c) Stolen bicycles, found by police in their gardens would give them the ride of their lives!

RIOTIN - LOOTIN - WRECKIN

"This city is full of people who are poor and angry," "What scares me most is that people on the fringes are simply waiting for any opportunity to begin the looting." For 12 hours on Thursday, the mobs ruled the streets.

CLASS WAR

THE OLD AND THE POOR ARE NOT A TARGET

The Ungovernable Class

The Class War is the everyday fightback against all those who try to keep us in line with their law and order. Their schools, media, prisons, courts and police are there to tame us.

But we are the ungovernable class and our honour to each other, our unity and the mayhem we will unleash against our enemies will defeat them.

Don't let 'em grind you down – fight the Class War!!

Fight Back

This is it – here we go; get ready for every school teacher's and copper's worst nightmare come true - hooligans and hustlers; skaters and surfers; criminals and street kids uniting in 'crews' and running wild in the streets; organising mass shoplifting, ramraiding, graffitting cop stations and courthouses, slashing the tyres of expensive cars, robbing rich people. A radical street blitz by the youth – gone wild. We will be chained by law 'n' order no more. We will not behave ourselves.

We are going to organise bust funds for those fined and arrested, build communication and fencing links with others interstate and in different towns. Always building unity, awareness and rebellious spirit.

We're going to attack everything that handcuffs us to normality; demolish anything that defuses rebellion, deadens awareness and props up the system.

We're going to be roaming hit squads determined to smash all that the system throws at us.

Our crews will be a new breed of class selective criminals who only target the rich and those who protect and serve their interests. We will help the defenceless and the poor and attack the causes of this with the violence the system provoked in us.

We're gonna turn the guns around on them – not on each other. No more dogging. No more cowardly behaviour; just the angry ones on the rampage taking the fight to the real enemy.

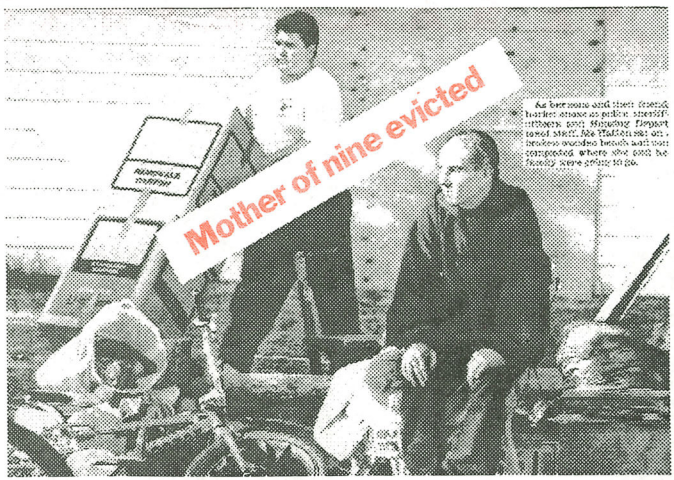
NO MORE EVICTIONS



UNITE & FIGHT BACK

The only way we can put a stop to evictions is if the sheriff and the cops can't carry it out because there is just too much resistance – too many people sticking together – to allow it to happen. We've gotta unite and fight the bastards that throw people out onto the streets. It's us united that scares them. Fuck politely doing as you're told and moving on. That's what they want you to do. Turn the sheriff's car upside down – go on the attack. Take on the landlord at his own private home. Make it personal. That's what he is shit scared of. After all, to do nothing is to allow everything.

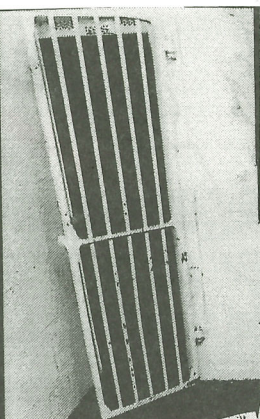
JAIL BREAK

A well-executed escape was the 1997 break from the Sir David Longland Prison in Queensland starring the infamous Brendon Abbott. Five hardened, desperate men in the high security block B4 used angel wire to saw through the bars of 90cm high windows. With tracksuit pants rigged into a winch-like device, they forced open the bars to create a gap they could squeeze through. From there they ran to the perimeter fence where their accomplices tossed bolt cutters and a .357 Magnum over the wall. As they cut their way out, their mates fired at the guards. Within five minutes they'd reached the getaway car. Seconds later they were out amongst the civilian population.

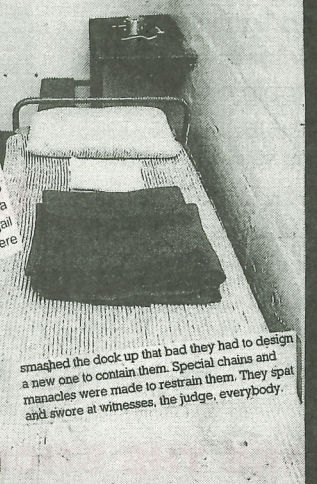
Another tried and tested method is concealment. Shane Cunningham, a wily Sydney burglar, made a mockery of Long Bay Gaol warders when he hid himself under pizza crates and loaded himself into a delivery van from the prison-based Hard Rock Bakery. The driver of the van noticed the rear door was open while driving along Anzac Parade. It wasn't Cunningham's first escape — previously he'd hidden under a van which was picking up bookcases from Parklea Prison.

If you'd prefer a more spectacular escape, however, there's always the mass riot approach. The best such jailbreak was from the Anchieta Prison, on Brazil's Devil's Island in June 1952. The bloodiest jailbreak in history began with a simple argument over the digging of a trench. By the time it was over, scores of people had been butchered and a whole state had been terrorised by murder, pillage and rape. Tanks, submarines and aircraft were brought in to battle 400 of Brazil's most desperate bandits and killers who overran the island and escaped to the mainland. Sixty of the 400 got away, finding anonymity in the swarming population of Rio de Janeiro. Mass break-outs are always a numbers game.

Traditionally, the best-planned breaks are made by career criminals — smart, charming repeat-offenders who escape as often as they are caught. Drug baron George Savvas was one such criminal mastermind. He slapped on a wig, fake moustache and civvies before quietly strolling to freedom through six heavily-guarded security doors at Goulburn Gaol during visiting hours.



But no matter how well a jail is built, and as long as there are prisoners who dream of freedom, there will never be a way to stop prisoners use "get out of jail free" cards. As the saying goes, where there's a will there's a way.



smashed the dock up that bad they had to design a new one to contain them. Special chains and manacles were made to restrain them. They spat and swore at witnesses, the judge, everybody.

But it's not just Aussies who fly the coop. In a 1995 break-out from a prison in Copenhagen, prisoners were enjoying a barbecue with relatives in the yard of the Vridloeselille state jail when a bulldozer smashed through the prison wall, opening up a four metre wide escape route. Twelve convicts bolted — all on national television!

Ronald Ryan, hanged in 1967 set the precedent for armed accomplices. He broke from Pentridge by killing a guard, climbing walls and avoiding gunfire. The notorious Russell "Mad Dog" Cox pulled off a dramatic rooftop escape from the scandalous Katingal Special Security unit of Long Bay in 1977. Another Houdini, Shaun James Cox pulled off seven escapes in 10 years in South Australia. His modus operandi was simply to walk out of court rooms, kick open prison van doors or slip out of hospitals — he even escaped from Adelaide police headquarters by picking the interview room lock and strolling out of the station.

Within two months, a main crew of five or six had control over the jail. I was one of that crew. I was connected on the outside. I knew where to get guns, drugs, alcohol, blades, anything. Setting up a network was the best way to get back at the authorities. I wanted the power, the money, and, most of all, I wanted to stay alive. If you were in with the right people, you were untouchable.

We supplied escape equipment, drugs and intelligence information. We represented the power in the jail.

The first successful escape involved two of the Angry Gang – Lee Garrett and Alan McLean. They got out by slicing through a bar in their cell. We sold them a carbon-fibre rod for three grand. It came into the jail in a cigar case up a bird's clacker. The metal detector didn't go off because it had an aluminium casing.

● Nice NRMA man not wearing seatbelt is handcuffed and repeatedly rammed into telegraph pole outside his house by traffic policeman after he threatens to complain to ombudsman about harassment. Mandatory offensive language and resist arrest charges against NRMA man dismissed.

● Police Medal-winning ex detective Roger Rogerson tells us: "Verbals are part of police culture . . . they're still doing it." He called it a joke "calling in an allegedly not involved senior officer to witness the unsigned record of interview to add more weight to its credibility".

● Armed holdup squad detectives Peter Ashton and Sergeant Craig MacDonald arrest a man for armed robbery. They say he willingly, but only verbally, confessed and they denied he was injured. A senior officer supports their story.

Magistrate Michael Heagney tosses the case out after evidence the man, who was allegedly garotted and punched, suffered a dislocated shoulder, a blackened ear, lacerated face and bruises.

● Mt Druitt residents peep as police bash a crying invalid pensioner then throw him into a police van. Mandatory resist arrest and assault police charges are dismissed by magistrate Roger Dive, who says of constables: "One has to wonder as to their right to deal with the public as members of the police force."

● An 18-year-old Cambodian boy who saw brother and father executed by Pol Pot stops on demand by policeman with dog. Boy charged with mandatory resist arrest, hinder police and a novel cruelty to a dog. Police deny dog bites boy. Boy drops daks in court. Magistrate Stephen Scarlett examines teeth scars and awards boy $3,585 against police.

● Man who looks like John Watkin robs bank. John Watkin signs confession for friendly armed holdup squad. Watkins in jail 11 months until man who looks like him robs another bank. Watkins let out of jail.

● A 17-year-old Aboriginal youth says "melonhead" as a policeman walks past. Melonheaded policeman arrests him. Magistrate Dragan Milovanovich agrees it is offensive to be called "melonhead" and fines Koori $50.

● Aboriginal grandmother bleeds all over clean road when police forget to lock paddy wagon door on mandatory trip to police station for trivia. Neighbour sees pool of blood. Police reassure that granny is "as tough as old nails . . . there will be nothing wrong with her".

● Armed holdup squad detective Peter Ashton arrests another man for armed robbery. Detectives Robert Irwin and Phillip Roche say he willingly, but only verbally, confessed and they denied they bashed him. Senior officer Craig MacDonald supported their story.

Judge Neil Newton hears man was punched 30-40 times in face and kicked. Sees photos of broken teeth and injuries and dosses case out.

● Man in perfectly good repair on usual resist arrest, assault police, offensive language trifecta taken into Parramatta police station. Leaves station bleeding and bruised with broken nose. Shucks, Internal Affairs just can't get police culture club to sing. Ombudsman recommends $5,000 damages.

● Police smash into Rozelle man's house and pin him to the ground, naked, with a gun at his head, in front of his wife and children. Sorry, wrong house. We would love a cup of tea.

● A former second-in-charge detective from Waverley, Thomas

● Brilliant police crack attempt to steal $2 packet of chocolates case. Hospitalised white female caucasian 83-year-old amputee with senile dementia faces rap at Burwood Court.

● Married couple wrongly arrested on trifecta of offensive language, resist arrest and assault police at Tempe "drag race riots" have charges dismissed. Magistrate Sue Schreiner views TV news footage and says policeman dragging woman by hair was "acting excessively". Husband entitled to pull policeman off her. Husband bashed and baton whipped.

● Policeman who king-hits, head butts and punches Aborigine outside registered club is convicted of doing something wrong. Magistrate Darryl Pearce becomes first white man to find a policeman "who took the law into his own hands".

● Police say foolish surrounded man jumps off school roof. Watching neighbour says police said "there is no other way down" then pushed him. Man kicked and hit with batons on ground says police accused him of hurting police dog while it was biting him.

Violence as the Class Warriors stir up hatred

FLASHPOINT: A blazing barricade on the streets of Burnley last week

ANGRY MPs last week demanded the deportation of an American group suspected of whipping up street violence across the North of England.

They are touring Britain's inner cities with anarchist group Class War.

MPs branded the party from Los Angeles as "inflammatory" and called for them to be booted out after the latest riots outbreak. Leaflets promoting a Summer of Discontent have been circulating in the trouble spots and police believe infiltrators are urging the mobs to step up the mayhem.

As police reinforcements braced themselves for more violence last weekend on the streets of Huddersfield, Burnley and Blackburn, a senior officer told how the riots had been taken over by "outsiders".

West Yorkshire police said ringleaders with high-tech scanners had been monitoring police messages and using CB radios to co-ordinate attacks.

A spokesman said: "We know outsiders are involved in the riots and we are now investigating the possible involvement of Class War."

Parasites

The Left-wing group warned last week that they will visit Bristol this Saturday.

They also threaten to descend on Coventry, Birmingham, London and Oxford.

Tim Scargill, Class War's organiser, said: "The police in Bristol cold-bloodedly killed two people. Our message will be: 'This summer Tory Britain will burn'. And if police get killed, too bad."

Bristol West MP William Waldegrave said: "They are parasites. I will ask the Home Secretary to look into the visit to Bristol of these people."

In copycat riots last week, 62 people were arrested as police came under attack from mobs hurling petrol bombs, bricks and stones.

LUXURY FOR THE RICH
WAITING LISTS FOR EVERYONE ELSE

If wealthy people hurt themselves or get sick, they go straight to a 'gold card' private hospital for immediate treatment. Not for them to wait on a list for 2 agonising years for a hip replacement or any operation called "non–urgent treatment". Public hospitals are there for the people who can't afford 'gold card private health care'. They are given fuck all money from the government and have to keep 'em going with the money raised from cake stalls and meat raffles. Meanwhile, millions are spent on luxury private hospitals that will not let you through their front doors – even if you are dying. Healthcare should be a right for everyone, not a privilege for the wealthy few.

Class War

This is Australia: a country where the majority are ruled, controlled and stamped upon by a minority of big-moneyed, finger pointing layabouts. Since they bought us here in chains 200 years ago, they have bled us and this country dry.

They work us like dogs, then dump us on the scrapheap when we're past our 'use by' date.

They keep the majority under control by dividing us up with insecurity and encoraging us to fight with each other and dob on each other.

They have an army of police, judges and politicians to keep us in line.

They farm us like battery animals and sit around like pigs living off the fat of the land.

They own the banks, the real estates, the malls, the TV and radio stations and the businesses and companies that run and wreck everything. Who are they? They are rcih people that drive around in expensive cars, get educated at private schools, live in palace-like houses, eat in expensive restaurants and live it up at the big end of town. And we are an army of millions who sweat to keep them in gold and silk. We are the lonely pensioners – cast aside after a lifetime of work, the battlers trying to keep heads above water and a roof over the family's head. The youth on the streets, the single parents struggling to make ends meet; the people who come up against the wrong side of the law; We are the underdogs who get kicked in the guts every step of the way. Well, we're putting them on notice.

Class War is organising a united fightback from the bottom aimed at the top.

We have all to gain from taking everything into our won hands. We want to encourage people to help each other and not turn a blind eye to the people in crisis where we live.

We want to end hunger, homelessness, loneliness and addiction by destroying the system that creates these problems.

We want to stop electric, water, gas and telephone cut-offs. We will fight Real Estates and Landlords – no more harrassments or evictions.

We will encourage a culture of resistance, rebellion and unity where we live, work and socialise.

We will help people in trouble with the law, with real back-up. We want to build a strong rebellious community spirit all over the country – this is the backbone of our fight back. We won't be taking any more steps backward. This is the beginning of a real street level fightback by the cornered underdogs.

If you've had enough of being pushed around by people in suits and uniforms and you've got the guts to say no and fight back – join CLASS WAR and take the fight to them.
